Jack-O'-Lantern History

Jack-o'-Lanterns are hollowed out pumpkins with a face cut into one side. Most jack-o'-lanterns contain a candle or some other light. People in Scotland and Ireland once carved out large beets or turnips to use as lanterns on Halloween. After this custom reached America, pumpkins began to be used. The jack-o'-lantern originally represented spirits present in the dark, or souls released from Christian purgatory.

According to an Irish legend, jack-o'-lanterns were named for a character named Jack, who could not enter heaven because he was a miserly, bad-tempered man. He could not enter hell either, because he had tricked the devil several times. As a result, Jack had to walk the earth forever with only a coal from hell to light his lantern.

Calling the HOA Office After-Hours

After regular business hours, our management company has a very efficient emergency response system in place in order to respond to appropriate emergencies, which are situations that can cause the damage of property.

Our management company can do little about your neighbor's dog barking at 3:00 a.m., but a call to the neighbor or, as a last resort, to the local police about the disturbance may help get immediate attention. The best way for this kind of a situation to be handled in the long term, is for you and your other affected neighbors to report it in writing to the Board of Directors in care of management.

Prowlers and vandals are best handled by the local law enforcement officials. That is not to say that the Board or management does not want to know about this activity. They do, in order to monitor the community, but the quickest, most effective response and enforcement will come from the Police or Sheriff's Department.

However, if a broken common area sprinkler or irrigation timer is threatening property, the management company should be notified so that the landscape contractor can be called to solve the problem.

A rule of thumb to remember when determining whether or not to call the management company after-hours is that if the property threatening situation can be addressed by one of the Association's contractors, and if not reported immediately will cause personal or property damage, then call. After hours on-call personnel will be notified and the situation addressed.

Remember, our Board of Directors and management depend upon the eyes and ears of the community to make sure that all of the community's needs are met. Please don't hesitate to contact management during normal business hours with any questions you may have about the after-hours policy.

VOWS office hours are Monday - Friday 9:00 am - 6:00 pm and Saturday 10:00 am - 4:00 pm.

Yard of the Month

Congratulations to the homeowners at 11649 Aspen Creek Drive for the most beautiful yard in VOWS for September 2016. The homeowners received a $30 gift card courtesy of The Flower Ranch, a yard sign designating them Yard of the Month, and of course, bragging rights! Thanks for making VOWS a beautiful place to live! If you would like to nominate someone for yard of the month, please email vows.admin@fsresidential.com

The Villages of Woodland Springs "Yard of the Month" was established to promote goodwill and reward exemplary lawn care in the VOWS subdivision. The purpose of the program is to recognize neighbors who demonstrate above-average efforts in maintaining their property, thereby contributing to the overall appearance of the community at large. This is a great award and the program is administered entirely by volunteers and nominations from homeowners. The Villages of Woodland Springs Homeowners Association is dedicated to improving the quality of living and appearance of our community. We encourage residents to take pride in their homes and neighborhood. In turn, we look to celebrate those who do a superior job in maintaining their yards in such a way that they enhance the overall curb appeal of the entire community.

THE BONEYARD VIII

We are proud and happy to announce that the Bone Yard is returning for its 8th year in the Villages of Woodland Springs! Despite some of our founding members going to college, the tradition of providing fun and memories for our neighbors, and collecting food for The Community Storehouse, is continuing.

We are made up of 6 families in VOWS who love Halloween and love to give back to our community. Many people have commented to us individually and through our Facebook page that we should charge admission for all the time, money, and hard-work that goes into this every year. However, in the spirit of good will, we chose to collect canned goods instead. Last year, we collect 400 pounds of food that we donated to The Community Storehouse. We would love to collect even more this year!

For those that are brave and/or crazy enough to go through a real haunted house, we are excited to invite you to come through on Halloween starting at dusk or so. The time is approximate as we're expecting some of the undead to show up this year and they are a little sensitive to daylight, if you know what I mean! You may want to consider not wearing any perfume (or deodorant for that matter) as they have an extremely sensitive sense of smell....

Soliciting... NOT IN VOWS!!

Please be aware that it is a crime for solicitation to occur in the City of Fort Worth (without a permit). There have been a string of solicitors in VOWS recently who have been selling a household cleaner without a permit. Other vendors have been reported as well. Our own Officer Sawyer shared that often times these solicitors are checking out homes with the intent to later burglarize them. If you see a solicitor, call the Fort Worth Police non-emergency number, describe the solicitor, describe what they are selling, and where they are located (what street).
 With your help we can get these unwanted individuals out of our community.

Eagle Scout Skills Fair and Movie Night

Neighbors enjoyed learning outdoor skills, making paracord bracelets, and eating cast iron cobbler and donuts from the Eagle Scouts. Free pizza, chips, and cookies rounded off dinner. The family movie, Kung Fu Panda 3, played at sunset with popcorn.

Halloween Safety

Halloween is still a fun fall event that kids look forward to each year. Many alternatives to going door to door are offered throughout the area. Fall Festivals, Trunk or Treat and many church sponsored events. As your Neighborhood Police Officer I would like to make the following suggestions for a safe Halloween.

If you choose to go door to door, here are some precautions to take.

- Never let your child go out alone
- If they are older, have them go in a group
- Use Apps such as “GPS Tracker” that will track your child’s path
- Only travel on well-lit streets and be aware of your surroundings
- Wear some reflective clothing
- Carry a flashlight for crossing roads and a whistle to blow for help
- Never enter a strangers home
- Be selective when sorting your candy. Throw away candy that is opened, out of the wrapper or tampered with
- Check out Familywatchdog.us for the sex offender list

If you have any questions or concerns please contact me.

COVENANT CORNER

On our property drives, we have noticed several lawns with dying or no sod. The Villages of Woodland Springs CC&R's state that each owner must maintain an attractive ground cover of grass or sod on all yards visible from a street. We've been asked by home-owners for suggestions on how to grow grass in shaded areas. Here are some tips for getting the grass to grow in the shade:

1. Shady Spot You can grow a pretty swath of lawn in a shady spot, as long as you pick the right grass and take care of it properly. Most turf grasses need at least four hours of direct sun to survive, but specialized shade-tolerant grass blends thrive in four hours of dappled sun or partial shade. In cool-season grass category, the shade-tolerant grasses are rye and fine and tall fescues. Warm-season grasses that grow in the shade include Zoysia and St. Augustine.

2. Prune your trees – Many times

shady areas beneath trees and tall shrubs can be lightened up by pruning limbs. As you prune, aim to thin the canopy so that sunlight can penetrate to grass beneath. With trees, it's also a good idea to remove lower branches in a process called "limbing up". By raising the canopy of the tree, you're creating opportunities for sunlight to reach turf by slanting in beneath branches. Tackle the pruning you can handle yourself with two feet on the ground. If you have mature trees, talk with a certified arborist.

3. Aerate – Shady lawn areas benefit from soil aeration, which creates holes in soil and exposes the root zone of grass. These holes allow for water, fertilizer and air to reach grass roots. When to aerate depends on what kind of grass you have. Tackle aeration so it's done just before grass enters its peak growing phase. Aerate warm-season turf in late spring or early summer and cool-season grasses in early fall. Time fall aeration so it allows grass four weeks of active growth before your region's average first frost. For the best aeration, use a core aerator that pulls actual plugs of soil from the lawn. In small shady areas, plunging a digging fork into soil accomplishes the task quickly and inexpensively. Aerate whenever the thatch layer is more than on-half-inch thick.

4. Add Organic Matter – Grass in shady areas needs less fertilizer than grass growing in full sun. Spreading a thin layer of compost is a great way to give shady lawns a boost in early spring. If you plan to aerate, spread compost after aerating. It's also a good idea to apply compost before overseeding thin, shady turf. The compost layer should be thin enough that you can still see the grass blades after it's applied. Use a push broom to spread it and work it between individual grass plants.

5. Choose the Right Grass Seed Spend money on quality grass seed, whether you're sowing a shady area for the first time or over seeding an existing thin lawn. A quality seed blend should include several different types of shade-tolerant grasses. That way, if one grass fails to succeed, there's another to take its place. The label on quality grass seed should show weed seed content less than one percent and inert material content less than four percent. Never buy grass seed with a germination rate less than 70 percent.

6. Overseed With a Drop Spreader – If you're starting a shady lawn from scratch, use a drop spreader for controlled seed distribution. Overlap on each pass to ensure you have adequate seed coverage. A broadcast or rotary spreader works well when you're seeding larger shady areas. You'll typically pay more for a drop spreader, but if you're tending a typical suburban-size lawn, it's worth the investment.

7. Knowing When to Water – A shady lawn doesn't use water as quickly as sun-drenched turf. If your shady lawn is courtesy of a building shadow, you won't need to water as frequently as if your shaded grass is caused by overhead trees. In this situation, you can't always count on rain-fall making it through the tree canopy to soak soil. You also have tree roots competing or any available water. By watering grass deeply but infrequently, you'll encourage deeper roots to form, which is vital for shady grass to survive.

8. Don't Over Cut – Keep grass in shady areas $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1 inch taller than in the sunny parts of your yard. This gives each grass blade a greater area to conduct photosynthesis, which is the process that fuels grass growth. Take caution not to scalp shady lawn areas, as they frequently don't recover. Most often this occurs during the first spring mowing, especially if you lowered the mowing deck last fall for the final mowing. Develop the habit of stopping and changing mowing height each time you come to your shady lawn section.

9. Fertilizing – On average, give shaded lawn areas roughly on-half to two-thirds less nitrogen per year compared to sunny lawns. In cold regions, apply winterizer fertilizer in fall at half the recommended rate.

10. Consider a Pathway – Minimize all stresses that might affect grass growing in shady areas. Keep foot traffic to a minimum. Consider installing stepping stones or a simple mulch path to protect grass. If you have children, try to avoid using the shady lawn as a play area. Do not allow pets to visit that area for potty breaks. It's also a good idea to vary your mowing patterns in shady areas. They're even more susceptible to suffering from compacted soil and rats.

11. Spot Spray Weeds – Limit herbicide applications in shady lawn areas unless you have a weed problem. Try to spot spray weeds as needed. Herbicides can be stressful to grass, and in a shady lawn, you want to avoid all stress.

12. Overseeding – Thicken a thin lawn by overseeding. Simply tossing seed onto the soil by hand can improve a shady lawn immensely. Do it consistently each year, and you'll find you're tending a healthy patch of turf. Remember not to skimp on seed quality. Overseed up to twice a year: in early spring before trees leaf out and again in early fall (at least four weeks before your region's average frost date). Don't forget to water after overseeding until new grass is established. Avoid mowing too soon or too often to limit foot traffic on the new grass.

13. Groundcover Options With ACC Approval

If you can't get turf to survive in a small shady area, consider planting a shade-tolerant, low-maintenance groundcover, like Japanese pachysandra, hay-scented fern, sweet woodruff, European ginger, liriope or hosta. This works especially well when dealing with planting areas beneath trees, where tree roots serve stiff competition to turf.

14. Landscaping Alternative With ACC Approval

For larger shady areas that are just too dark to grow a nice lawn, study shady landscapes to find concepts you like and can easily, affordably adapt to your yard. A shady spot always provides a great area for seating. Natural stone blends beautifully in shade gardens, whether it's a stone path or stone bench. Avoid large water features if your shade is caused by deciduous trees, or you'll be devoting time to fishing leaves from water or cleaning skimmer baskets.

Woodland Springs Homeowner's Association

The purpose of a homeowners association (HOA) is to maintain, enhance and protect the common areas and interests of the subdivision or neighborhood. Individual homeowners, as members of the association, pay periodic assessments, support & utilize neighborhood amenities (ponds, pools, parks, tennis courts, etc.). The assessments pay for community expenses such as entrance monuments, landscaping, amenities like clubhouses, tennis courts, or walking trails, insurance for commonly-owned structures and areas, an on-site management company, or any other item delineated in the governing documents or agreed to by the homeowners' association.

Currently, the Advisory Committee, which is comprised of elected residents, is the intermediate group between the residents and the Board of Directors and Centurion American (VOWS developer). This will continue until full development of VOWS is completed. The sub-committees report to the Advisory Committee. All residents are invited to attend Advisory Committee meetings which are normally held the 4th Tuesday of each month at 6:30pm at the Amenity Center on Timberland.
